

ANNOUNCING THE AUTHORIZED RE-SELLER PARTNERSHIP WITH HANWHA AND ART OF LOGIC

Art of Logic is thrilled to announce that it has entered an authorized re-seller partnership with one of the world's most renowned video surveillance CCTV manufacturers, Hanwha Techwin. This partnership will allow Art of Logic, a leading provider in Hardware and Software, to re-sell Hanwha products across Australia with the ability to access their latest product offerings with high levels of integrations with Nx Witness VMS.

The agreement provides an opportunity for system integrators to source Hanwha Techwin products directly from Art of Logic, a specialist in Artificial Intelligence, Machine Learning, Computer Vision, and Video Analytics.

The comprehensive range Hanwha offers will enable security systems to provide solutions for almost any application, from small retail stores to large multi-site operations, as well as on-board video analytics for specific vertical markets. Art of Logic's developers; will be able to work with you to develop a customised video surveillance system that caters to your business needs, budget, and risk profile.

Hanwha P Series cameras, driven by our AI-based security technology, are catching the eyes of consumers with sharper and clearer images and more advanced video analytics, contributing to better operational efficiency. AI cameras using AI algorithms disregard the movements of unwanted objects such as shadows, animals, or moving trees and thus reduce false alarms. AI cameras only generate event alarms for recognised entities such as people and vehicles, increasing operational efficiency.

With Art of Logic, you will benefit from a real-time window into your business by integrating leading surveillance and video analytics solutions. Our technology is ideal for companies with multiple sites such as retail stores or hotels and can deliver valuable insight about customer or staff behaviour. Visual surveillance, access control, and analytic technologies allow you to measure onsite activity to help manage your business actively.

Our partnership with reputable brands, like Hanwha, means you can be confident that we will deliver the latest technology available on the market time every time you work with us.